

Dear Students,

Do you enjoy spending time in the outdoors? How about making videos or creating websites? Do you like to keep moving during the day? Have you ever found yourself dreaming of running your own business or using your hands to build and construct?

If you answered “yes” to any of these questions, technical education is for you!

As you look toward your future and finding jobs that you’ll be excited about, please consider the Central Vermont Career Center as part of your high school experience. Here, you can embark on a career path that could require less than two years of education after high school.

Our instructors come directly from the industries you’ll be learning about, and have credentials, licenses, and training to prepare you for your future.

We are here to help you discover your strengths and build up the skills you’d like to improve. You’ll stretch your body and brain as you learn. You’ll never wonder, “When will I use this in real life?” because everything we do is directly connected to your career interests!

Please come and visit us. By spending time here, you’ll experience an applied educational pathway, and trust us: You won’t want to leave.

Come join our team!

“Vermont is facing a shortage of skilled trades workers. As people in the construction industry are quickly reaching retirement age, we lack a pipeline to fill those openings. We need to be doing everything we can to face this issue head-on, not only in the construction sector but across the economy.”

– Governor Phil Scott

“Vermont’s Career and Technical Education Centers are providing students and young adults with the practical training they need to get the jobs that are available in Vermont. There has been a lot of talk recently about Vermont’s workforce shortage — well, we have thousands of bright kids graduating from high school every year, and CTE Centers play a critically important role giving them the skills they need to thrive in today’s economy.”

– US Senator Bernie Sanders

Thought about...

Do you like to work with your hands and learn while doing?

Would you like to earn college credit while in high school?

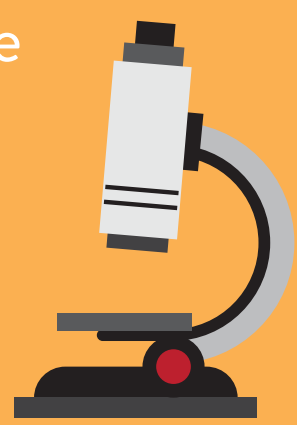

Would you like to start building your resumé?

Do you want to some day have a high-paying job?

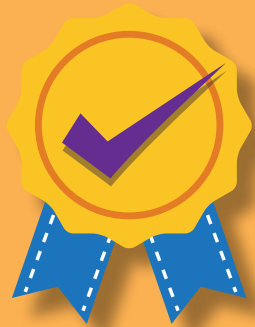

Do you want to spend school days in a great learning community?

Do you want to explore different careers?

Do you want to work with people who like what you like?

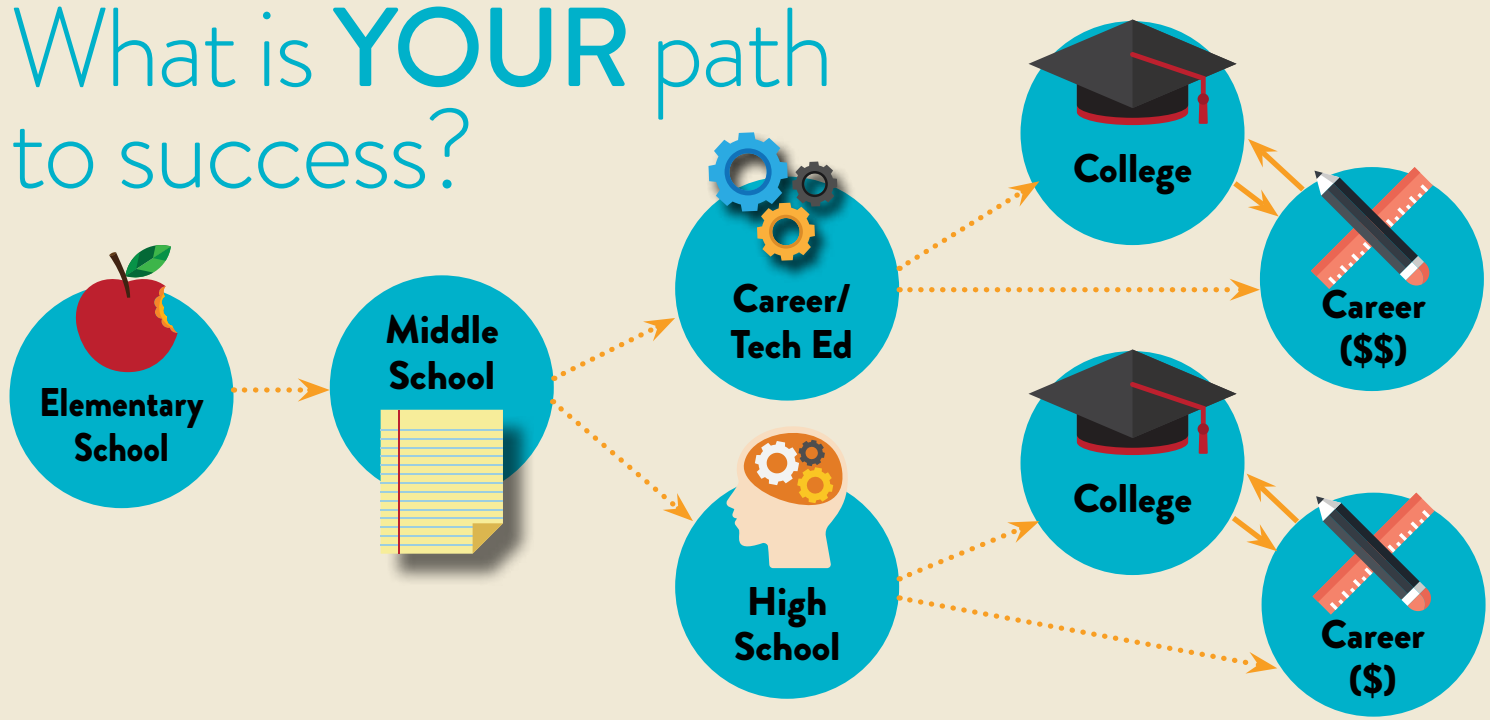

Do you like to work with the latest technology?

Do you enjoy helping others and making a difference?

What is YOUR path to success?

With practical experience and industry credentials, Career and Technical Education students typically have more earning potential ($$) after graduating than traditional high school students.

Whichever path you choose, CVCC is here to help.
